To whom it may concern,

“We recently briefed Electric Pencil on our latest website, and asked for something creative that would grab attention. Their very unique approach resulted in a website that exceeded our expectations. Electric Pencil’s ability to understand and execute on our brief means that our website stands out from the industry norms.”

Our first brief with Electric Pencil was in 2016 for our new website, and we wanted something interactive and that used animation. They quickly found a sound strategy for us, and the results were outstanding. The quality of work captured our brand and personality perfectly. We have developed a great relationship with Electric Pencil over the years and continue to use their services for graphic and web design.

The website hosting solution Electric Pencil provides is fast and secure and optimised for the best experience possible for our customers.

I have recommended Electric Pencil to two other businesses who they have successfully designed websites for and I would not hesitate to recommend them again.

Sincerely,

Brian Timperley, Chief Executive Officer, Turrityo Networks
